

WE NOMINATE

Marion Greenebaum Epstein, one of the Princeton community's dedicated public servants, whose nomination by Governor Richard J. Hughes for membership on the 12-citizen, unsalaried State Board of Education has evoked enthusiastic reactions from the organizations with which she has been associated over the past two decades. Presented to the State's Judiciary Committee shortly before the Senate's recent adjournment, the Governor's naming of Mrs. Epstein, Vice-President of Princeton Township's Board of Education, as successor to another Princetonian, Mrs. Marie H. Katzenbach, now awaits action by the Senate when it returns from its summer recess.

Unconcerned with the "phenomena of politics," but aware of the massive educational problems confronting New Jersey, this 49-year old native of Brooklyn, whose husband is a research engineer with the Radio Corporation of America, has expressed her willingness to shoulder tremendous responsibilities. For instance, the newly issued report of the Governor's Committee on Higher Education emphasizes: "New Jersey can no longer remain apathetic when considering the critical needs of the State's program in higher education. Unless immediate steps are taken to improve and extend the existing opportunities, the State is headed for serious trouble in many aspects of its social and economic life."

Mrs. Epstein, the mother of three, is admirably equipped by training and inclination for the challenges, and conceivably frustrations, presented by the State Board which oversees all public education in New Jersey. A versatile and articulate mathematician, she is a ranking member of the Test Development Division of Educational Testing Service and is responsible for the development of tests in mathematics aptitude and achievement on all levels from kindergarten through post-graduate study in specialized areas.

Mrs. Epstein, a Princetonian since 1943 when the "first wave" of RCA "rolled into" the area, has helped shape Princeton institutions in addition to the Township School System she has served so effectively for the past 9 years. A past president of the League of Women Voters, she was a founder of the Council of Community Services and for 6 years a director of Family Service. Both she and her husband played key roles in the establishment of the Princeton Jewish Center and in recent years she has made time for such major assignments as directing educational "workshops" in such widely separated localities as Atlantic City and Ghana and Nigeria.

The youngest of three daughters and an alumna of one of the country's outstanding secondary schools, Brooklyn's Erasmus Hall, she was graduated in 1935 from Barnard with Phi Beta Kappa honors and received her master's and doctoral degrees at Bryn Mawr. The brilliant record she forged at Barnard was prophetic of her capacities for many-faceted service to education in Princeton, including her contributions to the preparation of two distinguished and penetrating "public documents," "Report of the Citizens' Advisory Committee on Long-Range School Planning for the Princeton Township Schools" and "Public Education in Princeton."

For meriting the recognition Governor Hughes has recommended to the Senate in his search for top-notch and open-minded leadership; for stressing the importance of having New Jersey citizens' face up to educational problems that all too often have been swept under the carpet; for her concern for the well-being of her Community and State; she is our nominee as

HERE'S THE FETE!

12th Hospital Event. It has rained, sometime during the day, for every Princeton Hospital Fete except two. Weathermen, farmers and gardeners hope the trend continues. Hospital Fete committee members hope that sun, a fair blue sky and wide open wallets will smile on Saturday, starting at 9 a.m. and continuing right straight through to 6.

This will be the 12th Princeton Hospital Fete. It will be held, all day Saturday, on the Community Gardens field behind Township Hall and Community Park School, for the benefit of the Princeton Hospital Building Fund.

Behind the cotton candy and the frisky pennants waving like eagles from the tops of the tents, there is the cold, hard factor of cash. The Women's Auxiliary of Princeton Hospital is very nearly a Big Business. Its 11 Fetes have turned a net profit of more than a quarter of a million dollars. It has pledged $150,000 to the Princeton Hospital building fund and has already paid about $70,000 of that pledge. Last year, the 11th annual Hospital Fete made a net profit of $39,512.08, and that's a lot of hot dogs. This year, Fete chairman hope to continue the kind of balance sheet that has seen profits jump from $10,000 in 1961 to $27,000 in '62 to $31,000 in '63 to the record $39,000 of last year.

A New Home. But there is a "but": this year's Fete has been moved from the gold field of Fitzpatrick Field to the new and untrodden ground at Community Park, between Route 206, Valley Road and Witherspoon Street. Princeton University needs the Fitzpatrick Field area for its new physics building and protons come before profits.

For many years, Fete Auction chairmen have stored auction donations in the ROTC building, adjacent to Fitzpatrick Field, and in the dressing room of Palmer Stadium. In the past, the grand plan, Empire tables and electric typewriters donated for auction have simply been moved 50 feet from stadium to auction tent. Only one expenditure: muscles.

This year, everything contributed to the auction must be moved from Palmer Stadium and the ROTC building all the way across town to Community Gardens. Expenditure: plenty. And next year, where will it all be stored?

Then there's the electricity. Fete chairman traditionally rent the heavy-duty wiring and equipment required. (Cotton candy-making machines, for example, and the facilities needed to cook bologna).

In the past, Princeton University has donated its electricians and has paid part of the electric bill. This year, Public Service did the installing on a straight commercial basis. Guess who will pay the electric bill? The Hospital Fete.

Park Here. Parking in the new location has been a problem, too, but that one seems to have been solved. About 500 spaces across Route 206 from Township Hall have just been lined up.

Engineer Frank Quinby of the Township has come across with the brand new parking lot in from John Street, the one that will serve Community Gardens athletes in future years. Valley Road Schools

Men? We Love 'em

"Can you imagine," asks the Hospital Fete program, "what would happen on Fete day if the girls had planned all the electric wiring?"

In a tribute to the men around the house, perhaps in payment for the cold baked beans he had to eat while his wife was planning it all, Fete committeewomen give thanks to the men who have helped with the Hospital Fete each year.

Rotarians will manage the Midway and Jaycees will handle the parking. Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts distributed the program book. Men have donated trucks and equipment, helped with construction, driven station wagons on auction pickup days. And most heroic of all, the Lions clean everything up on Sunday.

And that chins smash — did you know that the University donates all its used baseballs and a pottery firm its "second-

Pen Art. New this year will be a children's art festival with paintings, at 25 cents each donated by the young artists of public and private schools. Isn't a masterpiece worth a quarter?

The "Fair Wars" is a toy mart with things like the Radio Invention Kit donated by the Fete by Creative Playthings. You can even buy arithmetic games and flash cards.

Almost 800 cassettes will be at the Charnett booth. Fifty women on the Gournet committee canvassed their neighbors for genuinely exciting "gourmet" casseroles to sell at the Fete: stuffed grape leaves and the German Pussia Schmeitzel; beef fondue aux poivres and Chinese green; and our little chicken Chubbie and Pollo Roast from Nicaragua.

Gardeners and cooks will buy things like Topsoil by single rainbow asters and rare herbs processed for the kind of gourmet cookery that goes into all those casseroles.

And More Food. Baked goods are the province of the churches, but coffee and doughnuts from Trinity; cakes from Princeton Methodist, Mt. Pleasant and St. Andrew's; and good Baptist pies and breads from Calvary Baptist, First Baptist and Princeton Baptist. Unitarians are, "nearly enough," contributing "Single Biscuits."

The list of contributors is, of these, endless. Visitors to the Fete, if they can stop bidding at the auction or turn their thoughts for a moment from the fascinations of the glass blower, may wonder how in the world it all gets put together.

The chairman for next year's Fete have already been chosen by the Steering Committee. The actual work will not begin until November. By January or February, committees have been named and plans are being hatched.

Wanted: New Blood. Scan the list of Fete chairmen for the past dozen years and you will find only one overlap: Mrs. Harry F. Olson was vice-chairman in 1954 and chairman in 1955. Apparently there is a deliberate policy of "new blood" — "let's pick women who are fresh and new and who have never done it before."

Basically, the categories remain the same. There is an auction and a "Lane of Shops" with exquisite hand-made things to sell. There is a drawing and the winner gets — this year, a Ford Mustang. There are the excitements for children and the lovely garden booth with its plants and accessories.

Within these categories, the chairman exercise free play and so each year, there are innovations like this year's Crepes Booth where you can but not only Suetz, but a dozen other kinds as well.

I Remember. Visitors who have strolled all 11 Fetes remember some of them with affectionate nostalgia. The second Fete in '55 — that was when the stars of "Howdy Doody" were the honored guests and the "Tiger Kittens" of Princeton High performed (Connie MacNamee, Anne Van Zandt, Marie Selbert, Joan Ashby and Lois Ellis) and the band with Elias Baker, Sandy Maxwell, Richard Heilbruck and the Wilder Hobbes.

But that first year! Always, from the first Fete, there has been a "dunk" of some kind. Last year, lissome, blue and silvering high school girls offered themselves to the water and Abbridge C. Smith III named the apparatus wearing a Guy Nineties bathing suit, and even got wet himself.

In 1954, the list of those dropped into the tank included Harland F. Baker, Edmund Cook, George J. Cooke, Lewis B. Cuyler, George H. Galup Jr., Robert T. Galschell, Donald W. Griffin, A. C. Reeves Hicks, H. C. Sturhahn and A. Vernon Shannon.

It was quickly decided, however, that shapely matrons in bathing suits were more alluring than the volunteers named above, and, since 1954, the dunk has belonged to the girls.

So Saturday is the day. Take the kids and turn them loose. Wander the grounds at Community Park and see if you can estimate the take. It's going to be big.

TOPICS Of The Town

DUMONT THE WINNER
By a narrow 10,000 Margin. By a scant 10,000 votes out of more than 200,000 cast, State Sen. Wayne Dumont of Warren County became the Republican candidate for Governor in Tuesday's primary elections.

Twice the loser in similar political races, he overcame an early lead credited shortly before midnight to his opponent, State Sen. Charles W. Sandman Jr. of Cape May. A third Republican, conservative Harold Poetschel of Short Hills, ran a distant last. Totals showed Sen. Dumont, with approximately 156,500 votes to 145,700 for Sen. Sandman and 6,000 for Mr. Poetschel.

Mr. Dumont won on the realistic outlook that New Jersey needs a broad-base tax to bail it out of steadily mounting financial difficulties. His opponent had made as the sole issue of his campaign the fact that he was opposed to any new form of taxation.

Mercer was among the 13 of 21 counties in New Jersey which Sen. Dumont carried. He won here by 5,355 to 2,128.

Hughes Wins Easily. Gov. Richard J. Hughes, the Democratic incumbent whom Sen. Dumont will now oppose in November, had only token opposition in the primaries. He won over William J. Clark of Newark, who had never sought public office before, by some 185,000.

votes. Mr. Clark is a Negro who was protesting the lack of Negro appointees to State positions.

There are about 3.1 million registered voters of both parties in New Jersey. Tuesday's turnout for the primaries — seven weeks later than usual this year because of the legislative battle over reapportionment of the state's voting districts — was about 13% of the electorate.

Little Interest Here. The picture was much the same in Princeton's two municipalities, where no contests had developed. About 13% of the voters went to the polls in the Borough and 16% in the Township.

In complementary balloting, Mayor Henry S. Patterson received 431 votes and his running mate, Republican Councilman William H. Walker II and Alfred E. Sorenson, respective totals of 428 and 424.

Nicholas J. Bartolino, Democratic candidate for mayor, polled 226 votes. Candidates for council, H. Philip Minis and Joseph L. Banton, drew 221 and 222 respectively.

In the township, Mayor Carl

C. Schafer received 602 in his campaign for reelection to the committee. Fellow Republican James S. Hill drawing 577. The lone Democrat, Melvin B. Goltich, polled 129.

Following the trend in the county and the state, both Borough and Township voted for Sen. Dumont over Sen. Sandman. In the Borough, the victor's margin was 341 to 99; in the Township, 598 to 180.

ZONING DISCUSSED
But Changes Are Planned.
"Everything we say here tonight is moot," observed David Deitz at the Borough Planning Board meeting Tuesday night.

The Planning Board was listening at the time, to proposals of the zoning ordinance amendment passed by Borough Council making a new B-4 business district out of Jugtown and granting broad site-plan review powers to the Planning Board.

After the amendment had been passed by Borough Council last month and referred to the Planning Board for approval or rejection, Planning Board member Alan Carick, who is a lawyer, began to have second thoughts.

He conferred with Borough attorney Gordon Griffin and Planning Board colleague Norman Williams and they decided to split the measure in two: one amendment for the Jugtown change, and a second one for the site-plan review. They also decided to untangle, re-enforce and clarify, from the legal point of view.

Four Hearings. So the discussion Tuesday night was, in Mr. Deitz' words, moot. On Tuesday, Council will so amend with its scheduled public hearing on the two proposals, but then it will re-introduce them, as revised, and hold another public hearing in July on the revisions.

The Planning Board will also hear arguments all over again on the revisions so that actually there will be four hearings before the measure is finally passed or defeated.

Mr. Deitz was representing 16 Jugtown property owners who don't like the B-4 idea. The suggested change is aimed at keeping Jugtown a small-business and residential area, and it limits business square footage to 2,000, requires a 9 a.m. closing time and just specifically the kinds of businesses that would be allowed. "The measure is discriminatory," Mr. Deitz declared.

SUGGESTS BAN ONLY. Miss Patricia Gehlert, co-owner of The Gourmet at Nassau and Harrison, protested that the amendment would restrict expansion of her shop, which is larger now than 2,000 square feet.

"It isn't economical to have small stores in this neighborhood, and it's too busy for a purely residential section," she said. "Why not just ban the kinds of businesses we don't want?"

Round-Up

NEARLY FOUR YEARS: It was in October, 1961, that precipitation first began to taper off seriously, so that the current drought is now in its 43d month. It is actually extremely widespread, affecting not only New Jersey but eastern Pennsylvania and virtually all of New England.

The month just closed added to the woes of everyone to whom water is more than just a drink. A bath, such as farmers, industrialists, conservationalists and those engaged in supplying to villages, towns and cities. In this area, however, the seriousness of the situation, May, 1963, was one of the driest on record.

Rainfall was a scant 25% of normal — 95 inches when some 3.62 inches are due. From May 2, did the parched earth benefit from anything approaching half an inch in 24 hours.

The drought is having a marked effect on lawns, gardens and farms — under the presumably unquenching potato is beginning to wither for more moisture. Irrigation in an increasingly common practice, but still an expensive one: each time an acre is irrigated it raises the cost of the crop $9 per acre.

So far, there are no reports of wells in outlying areas going dry, and urban regions in southern New Jersey are expected to be under far more rigid restrictions than Princeton. In many places, reservoirs are no more than 50% of capacity, with levels dropping steadily.

May was also considerably hotter than usual, running about four degrees above the normal average of 62. There were four days with readings above 90, including two of 94, and three of them set all-time records for the month.

Depending on how you look at it this may or may not augur for cooler weather ahead. The pessimist may well feel that a trend has set in, and if it can run to 94 in May, July can easily top 100. On the other hand, the optimist will carefully consider the fact that weather bureau records kept over three-quarters of a century show that a single year produces an average of only a dozen days above 90 — and there've already had four of them.

THE INSIDE VIEWPOINT: A former Princetonian, now a college president, is one of three trustees elected by the Seminary — picture and stoppage 33.

Five of two real estate businesses in the Princeton area is among the news in the field, reported on page 31.

Diploma time is here — names and pictures of a number of those from this area who are seniors in schools and colleges, appear on pages 20 and 21.

Other people in the News have their resumes stipulated that the municipality must take "an advisory position" in such zoning

Wishful Thinking

How did I do
To have been
The day-long sound
Of gentle rain?

This week's poet obviously is not a member of the Hospital Fire Committee. The wish, however, is likely to go unfulfilled — on Saturday, or any other day in the near future.

The best and humidity are not as hot as many a Princeton High School student when asked what he thinks of a possible Board of Education ban on the use of cars for driving to and from school. "Interference where they have no right to," "Unfair," "Ridiculous" are among the charges, with one respondent to TOWN TOPICS' Question of the Week declaring that the move should not be made just because "there are a few rotten apples."

But irritation at the thought of such a ban is by no means unanimous. Said a freshman, who is a good three years away from getting his license, "Cars are a menace to life. Some of the drivers aim right at you and stom on their brakes only a few feet away." — it's all on page 19, and it makes unusually interesting reading.

Community Players' annual June production opens a three weekend run this Friday, with other late spring theatricals, previously detailed on pages 5 and 6.

Concerts (one by the Columbia Boy Choir, open to all without charge) and recitals are listed in Music in Princeton, page 8.

Theft, most of it petty, and vandalism, even pettier, continue to dot the police docket. . . accidents, some of them serious, are seemingly as much a part of the scene as when the gnats are coated with ice and snow.

Contrary to rumor that was prevalent over the weekend, the man killed by a Pennsylvania Railroad train near Plainsboro was not a Princeton undergraduate but a middle-aged wayfarer with no home.

What's to become of Princeton Country Day School when it moves next fall to its new home on the Great Road? The answer is among the many stories this week in Topics of the Town.

in hearings, a precedent which is considered "disturbing" at Borough Hall.

BIBLE SCHOOL: A kindergarten at Trinity Church was flashing a flag danger around following Sunday school. Its teacher inquired:

"Are you David, looking for Goliath?"

"Back flashed the answer: 'I sure am! What grade's he in?'"

RAIL PLAYER: Which brings to mind the story about a Motet Lecturer will quote new to the game of baseball — so new at age 9, in fact, that his coach hadn't quite had time to instill all the fundamentals in the lad.

With his team trailing one day by some horrendous score such as 29 to 9, the coach decided that even a complete neophyte could hardly do much more damage and he ought to get the boy into the game.

"Bobby, take right field," was the order of the day. As excited as a 16-year old can get on the brink of a new adventure, the youngster scuttled around the bench in circles, looking for his glove.

"Let's go, Bobby," repeated the coach "take right field."

"Okay, Coach — where is it?"

TO STAGE BEHAN
In Players' Production. The Princeton Community Players will present "The Hostage," a comedy by Brendan Behan, Friday at 8:30 in Murray Theatre. A second performance will be given Saturday night at the same hour.

An unconventional play by an unconventional author, "The Hostage" takes place in a Dublin lodging house of ill repute and features a cast of characters ranging from patriotic zealots to religious fanatics. The playwright's aim is to attack the hypocrisies of each with outrageous humor.

In leading roles are Trevor Owens, Lois Ann Cohen, Philip Paul, Clare Reidy, Irene Rosenberg and Anton Schmitz. Supporting them are Arlyn Umar, Norman Smith, Stan Masters, Carol Simon, Philip Polakoff and Ed Cohen.

Mr. Cohen is also directing the production. There will be performances of "The Hostage" for three week ends through June 19.

GARDEN
Backfire (Thru Tues.) Jean Seberg and Jean-Paul Belmondo star in this adventure comedy. Gert Frobe, the villain of "Goldfinger," is villainous again, but he has something of a right to be sore this time.

Belmondo plays a newspaperman who agrees to smuggle gold across the border. Seberg is the photographer who somehow gets involved.

Belmondo discovers that the car he is driving, does, in truth, contain a large amount of gold but that it is part of the car — the fenders, door panels and other spots. He then hijacks the car and there is a wild, red-hot chase across the continent with Frobe's smuggling ring in pursuit.

used by would-be murderers whose identity and motive for killing him are as obscure to him as his own past. Somewhere in that blanketed area of his mind lie the clues.

A complicated but fascinating guessing game is set in motion as the lights suddenly go out all over a Manhattan skyscraper. Peck finds himself in the company of a beautiful woman, Diane Baker, who claims to know him. Later a man breaks into Peck's apartment and threatens to kill him unless he flies to the Barbados with a mysterious suitcase.

Walter Matthau appears as a novice detective hired by Peck. Lots of excitement and intrigue.

PRINCE

The Amorous Adventures of Moll Flanders. (Now playing through Tuesday) This version of the Daniel Defoe classic has been termed "Tom Jones" with a cleavage. The year is 1720, a busy free-wheeling time in Old England. Kim Novak is the flirtatious orphan, Moll Flanders, who rises from a ruinous road from rags to riches. She is essentially the happy whore, first seduced in the linen closet by the mayor's son.

Richard Johnson, a Shakespearean actor, is Jenny, the handsome highwayman. Angela Lansbury plays a Lady Bysshe and Italian film director Vittorio De Sica is Lady Bysshe's lover.

Also in the cast are Lilli Palombelli and John Conte.

News Of The Theatres

wer and George Sanders. The acting around Kim Novak is so competent that she is swept along into her best portrayal to date.

NEWSTRAND

How to Murder Your Wife (Wed. thru Sat.) stars Jack Lemmon and a beautiful blond newcomer, Virna Lisi. In the usual light-Lemmon Comedy. The zany script deals with a car accident which sets out his high adventure acts, and then draws his comic strip from the photos. His highest adventure marrying a non-English-speaking wife, leads him into hot water. Lemmon walks through his role, but Terry-Thomas, Claire Trevor and Sidney Blackmer are excellent.

Nine Days of One Year and Yolanda (Sun. thru Thurs.) are two Russian films, with Italian Virna Lisi somehow involved in one of them. "Nine Days" concerns a nuclear scientist, dedicated to science, his neutron breeder and his wife (in that order), but with growing doubts about the service, science must render to the Soviet Union.

"Yolanda" is a beautiful film treatment of Tolstoy's last opera, which has never been produced in the United States. It is a charming fairytale about a blind princess who is unaware of the beauty that exists around her. The color and period costumes, breathtaking shots of the scenery around the high mountain castle and the Bolshoi Opera orchestra and chorus make this a rare cinematic treat.

TO HOLD AUDITIONS

For Area Ballet Company. The Princeton Regional Ballet will hold auditions for residents of central New Jersey on Sunday.

Founded less than two years ago, the company holds auditions annually for both its senior and junior divisions. The first public performance was held last May and the company has since produced "The Nutcracker" last Christmas and a spruce program of modern and classical works.

12yr Youskevitch, a former star of the American Ballet Theatre, will conduct the auditions at the studios of the Princeton Ballet Society at 202 Alexander Street. Youskevitch is an internationally known ballet master.

The judges will be Mr. and Mrs. Alfredo Corvino of the Princeton Opera Ballet School and Nellie Farber, head of the ballet company which bears her name. Auditions for the senior company, ages 12 to 15, will be from 2 to 3:30 and the senior company applicants will audition from 3:30 to 5.

Applications may be obtained by mail or by calling the society studios at 921-7738. Valerie Kaley is the artistic director of the company.

FIVE MORE ANNOUNCED

For Bucks County Season. Bucks County Playhouse has scheduled five more productions which will take the season at New Hope, Pa., through September 18. "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" is now playing through June 12. The next production will be "The Typist and the Tiger" starring Dick Shawn and Betty Garrett. The new Murray Scheraga play will run from July 12 to July 24 and will be followed by a new adaptation of Henry Fielding's "Tom Jones," which will continue to August 7.

Pearl Bailey will star in "The Solid Gold Cadillac" beginning on August 8 for two weeks. It will be the first appearance in a non-musical role. From August 22 to September 4, the Playhouse will present "Quality Street," a new musical directed by Christopher Hewitt with music by Paul Springer. Joan Davis, niece of Sen. J. Lee Rankin of New York, wrote the lyrics.

Concluding the season will be another new play, "The Burning Flower Bed," starring Claude Rains, September 6 through September 18. The drama is scheduled for a Broadway opening in October. The play is the work of Ugo Betti and is adapted by Henry Denker. Ticket information may call 262-2046, area code 215.

"KISMET" IS NEXT

At Lambertville, a six-night run of "Kismet" is scheduled as the second production at the Lambertville Music Circus. It will open Tuesday and be shown nightly through Saturday June 13.

The Circus under the tent opened this week with Elaine Stritch as Anna in Oscar Hammerstein's musical, "The King and I." It is running through Saturday.

BACK TO OLD NASSAU: The phrase has a different meaning for Mary Webster (left) and Lou Stevens, Traveler's experts on Nassau and the islands of the Bahamas. It's a Bahama summer (fall, winter or spring) interests you, call Lou at 924-4264 or Mary at 921-9160 or Traveler at 921-2700, and sign up for a cottage.

IT'S NEW To Us

Bahamas in July? Sure! You can rent a cottage for a week on one of the out islands in the Bahamas for less than you could rent a place at the Jersey shore. And it's not hotter; in fact, it's probably a lot more pleasant because there is no Jersey mug material.

Happily promoting the Bahamas and Nassau as a year-round vacation—"Paradise" is the usual word, isn't it?—are a pair of Princeton ladies, Lou Stevens and Mary Webster, who call themselves "Bahama-Caribbean Consultants," working out of the Traveler Agency at One Palmer Square.

At the moment, their specialty is Nassau and the nine out islands in the Bahama group, and by specialty, we mean a "specialty," because these two have just returned from 15 days of the most delightful kind of research into original source material.

They have investigated every cove, bay, marina, hotel and cottage. They can tell you where to charter boats for two or three couples. They know where the marinas are if you have your own boat and where the ship-shore telephone facilities are located. (Even where you can buy ice!)

If you have your own plane or want to rent one, they will tell you where the private airstrips are, and the location of all those cozy little places so out of the way that the boss can never locate you in an emergency.

Where are these secret spots? Well, try Andros and St. John's Island; Georgetown in the Exhume chain or Harbour Island and Eleuthera; Spanish Wells on the north coast of Eleuthera is great for scuba.

And, as we say, summer is a marvelous time. Rates are down, of course, and as Mrs. Stevens says "you can get places" that are absolutely yummy for about one-third of the price you'd pay here."

One, for example, is $80 a month. It's a lavish, Hollywood set kind of place with five double bedrooms and a maid and cook. Find four other couples, split the rental and get down there as fast as you can.

For $100 a week, there are efficiency cottages with one bedroom—delightful for a couple with a yearning for peace and quiet. Hotels have reduced summer rates and many of them will rent on the family plan. Try Spanish Wells.

If you want night life, the Nassau Beach Hotel has it, in full, with a children's program to relieve you of that responsibility. Here at the Nassau Beach is a pool, water skiing and a beach almost right there in your bedroom.

For scuba fans, there is MM Underwater Tours in Yacht Haven. These guides (busy at the moment acting in a James Bond movie, will test you out first in a pool, then if you pass, guide you through the most find that I have given many of our clients the very permanent while others have received service from my staff of five

True, it takes time and effort to Tote your beer cans in a beer tote, purchased from the Gourmet when the next shipment arrives. You wear it over your shoulder like a golf bag (on the other shoulder simultaneously for balance, possibly?) to make sure that emergency rations are always handy.

The tote holds six cans, oddly enough. It has a spring mechanism which pops the next can right in to place as soon as the top can is removed. Field. $12.95. Being your own opener.

It's New To Us

Oranges' "Ultimate" is a crystal pattern with exquisitely tall, slim classic goblets, champagne flutes, cognac claret and Island Worcester "Sunflower" is a sturdy country breakfast pattern with a splash of gold sunflower petals to wake you up. Comes in a variety of standard size, a multi-graded of pitchers and bowls, a spacious teapot, a big coffee pot, cups and saucers.

Speaking of coffee, Gourmet has re-ordered these demi-fasse-and-a-half (demi-semi) coffee cups that match the bird fruit plates—the ones with the Audubon-sharp birds on white. Vegetables, rather than birds, have been used in the Veggie cooking ware. Peas, a highly stylized carrot (but recognizable) and a purple onion lie tranquilly against the white plates and serving dishes. There's a pitcher, too. Dansk goes outdoors this summer carrying a hurricane lamp that has two purposes in life. It provides you with a perfect cylinder of a candle which you set down over—yes, right on top of—a saucer, taper, candlestick. Place the glass hurricane shade on top, and there you are.

Then, you can lift off the big cylindrical candle and insert a taper into the taper candlestick when you move indoors. The base is a handsome brass-chrome combination, almost like an ashtray in size and shape.

Gourmet is especially proud of its Blue Mountain Designs. These are placemats, round table cloths (54 inches) and oblong cloths (72 inches) made by the women in the Blue Mountain Adirondack community. Magnificently colored contemporary fabrics have been used for the simplest table linens.

Men in the community made the Gourmet's tall fire park and the heavy dishes of variable use for these boards.

When School's Over, Creative Playthings has some of the most imaginative backyard gear you ever saw, and if you don't get out there with your poodle "helping" him play in that 50-inch diameter pool with its sculptured islands that make bays, inlets, lagoons and mountains when you fill the pool with water—why, you're just an old square.

The Puddle is fibreglass, 75, light and portable. It can also, but don't tell the kiddies this, be used indoors if it's rainy outside.

The Lookout Tower is six feet off the ground with a fireman's pole for fast get-aways and a canvas top to keep off the rain. It's $49.95. Earth-bound members of the clan will play on the dome climber, a half dome straight out of Buckminster Fuller, which can be covered and used as a tent. $29.95.

Creative Playthings suggests that with this equipment and some of the more expensive toys, like the $165 Poplar Cluster, three steel climbing "trees," you get together with the neighbors, find a grass circle at the end of a dead hill street, or even someone's back yard, and buy the equipment together.

Ernest Drake of Post 76 placed the memorial wreath.

Leonard LaPlaca, owner of Nassau Interiors, told the Board he had a chance to lease his property at 360 Nassau to a supermarket but had rejected the offer. "Now I'm disillusioned by these B-4 provisions, especially the 2,000-square-foot limit. I wanted a three-story, 20,000-square-foot furniture store, but I'm non-conforming already. If I had a big store like the one I want, it would produce nearly as much traffic as the little Jutegon delicatessen."

"Some of the people opposing this new zone are the ones who wanted it at first," said Dr. Alfred Cook, who has offices at 361 Nassau. "I think they've been talked to by lawyers and other businessmen."

There was also the immediate problem of John P. Servis, electrician who operates from 30 Harrison. The new B-4 zone line leaves him only 14 feet of the lot he hopes to use for a new shop.

Alfred C. Smith III, who spoke for Mr. Servis, then spoke "as a citizen and a lawyer" against the provisions of the site plan review idea.

Board's Powers Expanded. "I don't understand the necessity for it," he said, "and I suspect the intent is to get at the big-iter institutions."

The new proposal would give to the Planning Board broad powers of review over non-residential building. The Board would pass on such matters as the drainage of surface water, pedestrian circulation on a site and its approaches, and the impact of a layout on the surrounding area — all before a building permit could be issued.

"It is a weapon to prevent development," Mr. Smith charged.

Frank Reichs, representing Town Topics, Thursday, June 3, 1965

Princeton University, and John Moran, the University's Director of Planning, expressed alarm at what the new plan might do to the University.

"The University wouldn't know what the ground rules were in any specific case until the day we appeared before the Planning Board," Mr. Moran said. "There should be a thorough educational zone, and we would like the chance to sit down with the Planning Board as partners to discuss the matter."

Mr. Carriek reminded Mr. Moran that Board and University representatives had talked about an educational zone a year ago, and he told Mr. Moran the board still had the idea in mind. He said that the new planning consultant and the Board wanted a whole revision of the zoning ordinance eventually, and that right now, the consultant was working on a "backlog."

Presumably, it will all be said again Tuesday night at Borough Council and again when the new amendments are presented.

Proposes 11 Houses. A plan to build 11 houses on the Yed-in property at the Nassau-Riverview intersection occupied the Board for an hour before the zoning matters even came up.

Mr. Yedlin wants to wind a dead-end road called "Town's End Way" along the south line of his property roughly against the rear property line of houses facing Robert Road. Dr. Harvey Barthelme, 44 Robert Road, said this reverse frontage plan would cost him prices and probably lower the value of his house even though a fence or hedge were built along the line.

The Jewish Center doesn't like the placement of the road, either, because it would, in the words of William Miller, Center's president, "be a barrier to the Jewish Center."

ter representative, "foreclosure because to Riverside from the Jewish Center area." The Center would like a through road along the north of the development so that center cars could use it to exit on to Riverside. Dwight North, speaking for the Township Open Space Commission, said he would like to put in a bid for at least the corner lot on Nassau and Riverside for a bit of green park.

"This is certainly the 11½ hour to make that request," said Mayor Henry S. Patterson. "Besides if Open Space bought the land, it would have to be at an 11-let price."

"I'm authorized to pay 60% of the cost," Mr. North replied promptly, referring to the usual 60-40% Township-Borough split on such matters.

Mr. Gedlin's proposal was approved as presented.

SPORTS CAR FLIPS OVER
On Stockton Street. A sports car convertible flipped over and for end on Stockton Street at 12:45 a.m. Tuesday, after its driver had hit the curb, rounding a curve near Campbell Road.

Police said the driver, William D. Hammer, 18, 67 Locust Lane, complained of soreness to his rib area and right thigh but refused medical attention. He was ticketed by P.D. Charles D. Harris for careless driving. The police investigation determined that the car traveled 207 feet after it first struck the curb. It then jumped the opposite curb and flipped over, and for end, coming to rest against an iron fence at 83 Stockton. They noted Mr. Hammer as saying he started to skid and tried to bring the car out, but then only remembered crawling out of the car.

A Wild Ride. A wild ride involving two University students and a passenger occurred at 2:18 Sunday morning in the area of the Princeton-Kingston Bridge.

The driver, Ernest W. Burton, Jr., 19, of Potomac, Maryland, a University student, received severe lacerations of the forehead and lower lip. A passenger, George McGowan, 41, 246 John Street, complained of severe strain to his lower back. A second passenger, Jay F. Higgins, 112 Holzer Hall, was uninjured.

During this short, violent ride, Mr. Burton's car, a 1963 station wagon, first sideswiped another car, knocked down 16 feet of fence, bit a traffic sign and two telephone poles. With its entire front end and both sides damaged, police adjudged the car a total loss. P.D. David Wilbur, the investigating officer, has not yet announced what charges he will file against Mr. Burton.

DRY RUN FOR SCHOOL: These boys and girls will open the door to school for the first time next fall. Pre-kindergartners, just registered in the Township Schools, they were invited to visit Littlebrook School to see what kindergarten was all about. In this picture, John Cunniff, Littlebrook librarian, is reading them a story. It's the kind where you help to tell the story yourself by shouting "Arr!" whenever the dog in the story expresses an opinion. The response was enthusiastic. (Staff Photo)

As reconstructed by P.D. Wilbur, Mr. Burton, heading toward Princeton on Route 27, first sideswiped another car as he approached the Kingston Bridge. His station wagon then hit the left side of the bridge, crossed over the road and hit an arrow sign at the corner of River Road and Route 27.

From there, the car crossed over the highway again, sideswiped a Public Service pole, continued on, hitting a split rail fence for a second pole. It came to rest on the fence about three feet from the pole. Police measured the total distance after the first impact as 1,289 feet.

Thursday afternoon at 5:23, Lillian Danberry, 74, 13 Princeton Avenue, Hargrave, went into a skid on slippery ice on the Kingston Bridge. The impact threw her from the car down an embankment. Apparently uninjured, Mrs. Danberry was taken to Princeton Hospital and admitted for observation at the request of her family. It was raining at the time of the mishap and police made no charges.

A few minutes later, a car halted at the scene of the accident was struck from behind.

Mrs. May R. Jones, 73, 150 Library Place received whiplash injuries when her car was rammed by one driven by William B. Thompson, 62, of Route 206, Belle Mead.

Head Over Heels. Shortly before the Memorial Day Parade, an assistant professor at Princeton University was knocked unconscious when he was thrown from his bicycle on Witherspoon Street.

Borough police said Ta-Tsun Chen, 42, 123 Bayard Lane, was thrown head over heels to the pavement when his six-year-old son, Arnold, riding on the handlebars, accidentally struck his foot in the front wheel. His son was uninjured.

Mr. Chen was taken to Princeton Hospital by the First Aid and Rescue Squad. He was treated for a mild concussion, abrasions of the leg, lacerations of the face and later released. Three of his teeth were broken, as well.

The sudden stop caused the front forks of Mr. Chen's English bicycle to be bent backward. The mishap took place at 11:01 on Monday.

HOUSE IS RANSACKED

On Random Road, The home of William Feller, 119 Random Road, was entered and ransacked between noon and 6:30 Monday, according to Township Police, who were alerted by a neighbor, Louis Pensack, 119 Random. Police added they will not know until the owners return whether anything was taken.

All of the closets and drawers throughout the house including the attic were ransacked, according to the police. Pieces of jewelry were found thrown on the floor, ruling out that motive. Entry was gained by forcing an inside garage door leading to the kitchen. Police said the intruder left via an unlocked sliding door of the den.

FIGHT LOSE LICENSES

A Lesson in Medicinal Cryptography

● Reading a doctor's prescription is not quite as hard as breaking code. What appears to be scribbles is really medical shorthand that physicians use to tell you your needs. It can be read by pharmacists everywhere and lets us, in your neighborhood, fulfill any prescription no matter which doctor writes it. Chances are we could fill a prescription from Afghanistan. No matter what it looks like to you, the important thing is that we can read it and serve your needs.

First-Division Tweed or Grub? Campus Styles Evaluated

(The following article, entitled "Tweed or Grub?" was written by Edward H. Tice for the current edition of the Princeton Alumni Weekly.)

The days are gone when custom tailors in Philadelphia took full pains in the Tweed to proclaim their superior, distinct, and personally monogrammed, hand-rolled Egyptian cigarettes adjacent pages. But Princetonians are not quite as snobbish as they hope, or as shabby fear. There seems to be a tie no-body thinks his worth before. The best dandies wear vests, suspenders, galles, hand silk, etc.) English pin collar shirts, very thin horn-rimmed glasses and brown cutskin wingtip shoes with triple - thick soles and laces. The white peaked hankerchief in the breast pocket was until very recently the mark of the Dandy. Now it is more the trademark of the first-division

Tweed, who is not quite self-conscious or pompous enough to be a full Dandy, but who still approves of the principle. He prefers expensive $1.00 in plaids, jacquard linens, wood slacks, calf-length hose and Weights. Some confuse him with the second-tier Tweed, who in fact looks down at him while looking up to the Dandy as an occasional ideal. The second-division man wears blazers and, preferably, a u g e d tweed that is hard to find around town. His real trademark is the Brooks Brothers mark. He wears, besides, an invention in the history of tailoring: The front pockets and the back pocket. Features which only make identification easier. After several hundred years of fashions beautifully, revealing unsuspected layers and quality construction. Elbow patches, used to be second-division Tweed, but vulgarization of the patch, like the dissemination of the button-down shirt, has brought pining: into temporary inferiority. Second-divisioners let their elbows show through. They have as many ties as first-divisioners but wear them less often. Suits are reserved for Chapel, except when the jackets are worn with trousers that do not match, and with conservative sport shirts. Third-division Tweeds differ from the second-division only in preferring blue work shirts and retaining more links with campus bohemians; their occasional beads let native observers consider that. They are only big. 3) The Tweed wears beer jackets in the spring and fall, flannel overshirts and flannel shirts in the summer. He has two tweed coats but wears them seldom. He emits no beer, but he is a member of the club. His hair is shorter than a Dandy's or Tweed's. He wears chinows more often than dungarees. When he describes he wears a first - division Tweed, whether he is actively or passively Bicker- ing. He joins a club of Tweed members into his club. He looks down on 4) The High School Harry, who wears a sport shirt underneath a jacket with PRINCETON lettered on the reverse. He wears two or three years to overcome the shock of admission to Princeton. A freshman Harry finds his and lapels too narrow for Tweed tastes, his hair too short. He usually becomes a first - division Tweed by Bicker, then a T-Per. This leaves 5) the Grub, with his faded T-shirts of gray green or orange, his stubble, his socks, and his affected cosmic surliness, and 6) the Beat, who is a Grub with a black beard, a third-division Tweed with longer hair and a curlier beard.

Car slashes continued, too. Frank, a 20 Bayard Lane, reported the front seat of his station wagon slashed early Saturday morning while he was in a Nassau Street restaurant. He said before entering the restaurant, he had been approached by a group of boys, standing in front of the building alley, who had made some remarks.

Vincent Tufano, 72 Murray Place, told police two tires on the right side of his car were slashed on Monday. The car, he said, had been parked in front of his house all day. The same day, four tires, valued at $120, on a car belonging to the Springdale Golf Club were slashed while it was parked behind the tennis courts. Each tire had a two-inch cut, police said.

A meter held in front of 114 Witherspoon Street was damaged sometime Saturday. Police found the meter's mechanism smashed.

RECOMMENDATION MADE ON High School Studies. Mrs. Sarah Strayer, vice-president of the Borough Board while Education, made eight suggestions last week on behalf of the education subcommittee. She also reported to the board on recommendations for the high school science department.

Items recommended for the vocational education program were: (1) continued guidance of the non-college bound student by members of the guidance department; (2) revision of present shop offerings along pre-vocational lines before school opens in September; (3) continuation of present plans in business education and data processing; and (4) attention be given to aid to mechanics, electronics, distributive education.

Also, in support of the Mercer County Community College proposal, stressing the need to include a vocational aspect to the plans; (6) expansion of the new work-study program, to include an advisory council on the program; (7) establishment of a union with other Mercer County school boards to avoid duplication of effort and offerings.

Members of the board are Dr. Harvey D. Rothberg, Thomas A. Moore, Mrs. Strayer, and Superintendent Chester R. Stroup. The latter commented that the guidance department is surveying job opportunities in the community. The board will consider at the June meeting a resolution by Dr. Rothberg endorsing the proposed community college.

The time - space - matter course supervised by Dr. Sheldon Judson of Princeton University will be expanded in September to include the electronics course, now held on Saturdays and briefly during the week, will be introduced as a credit course on a semester basis. The physics program's PSSC course will be expanded to two sections.

The addition of two fully-equipped laboratories in the portable schoolrooms to be erected on the grounds this summer will permit the general science program to be laboratory-oriented for the first time.

In the offering are plans for expanding the advanced "Chem Study" program, a Statement from W. Windsor.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The discussion of the proposed consolidation of the Princeton Borough and Township Schools into one focus the important position of the sending districts in the long range planning for a sound system of education in the Princeton Community.

During the many months when the current proposal for the reorganization was being discussed, the sending districts were never consulted by either the Township or Borough School Boards nor by the Citizens' Committee. It is into a playground to read Chester Strop's statement regarding West Windsor's plans to build its own high school.

The views and position of the sending districts will undoubtedly enter into future debates on the school merger, so it is important to set the record straight.

West Windsor Township has been sending students to Princeton High School since 1902, longer than any other sending district. During this time it has been paying full tuition for each of these students so that West Windsor has been carrying its fair share of the cost. The record will also show that West Windsor students have contributed strongly to the academic and extracurricular life of the Princeton High School.

At the present time there are approximately 300 students of high school age in West Windsor. Our best population projections show that by 1970 this number will be approximately 400, far too small to enable West Windsor to build a high school. The West Windsor Board of Education is most anxious to continue the close relationship it has had with Princeton High School beyond 1970.

The debate on the merits of the Princeton School merger will continue. It is hoped that representatives of the sending districts will have an opportunity to express their views so that all the facts will be given to the voters before referendum.

W. BRADFORD CRAIG
President
West Windsor Township
Board of Education

Joint Committee, Mrs. S. Strayer, the board's representative on the Curriculum Advisory Committee made up of members from the sending districts, reported that the committee is "just limping along."

The Township and Borough members were the only ones present for the May 19 meeting on the high school physical education program. Plainsboro joined Borough and Township members at the previous session.

ONCE A SCHOOL...

Always a School. When the boys move out of the Princeton Country Day School building on Broadmead this fall, the toddlers of the University League Nursery School will move in.

Four classes of nursery-age boys and girls will occupy the entire lower floor of PCD and will spill over, on nice days, into a playground which will be fenced in for them outside.

Art Exhibit Planned

The Princeton Art Association will hold its first annual member show open to the public from June 9 to 13, daily from noon to 5. The former Nassau Interiors building at 162 Nassau Street, owned by Leonard LaPlaca, will be the location for the exhibit. Mrs. Malcolm Muir and Mrs. Neal O'Connor are chairmen of the show. A reception for the membership is planned when the show closes on June 13.

The boys, of course, will be in the new Princeton High Schools campus on The Great Road.

The remaining PCD space will be used for academic pursuits at the university level, but John Moran, director of planning for Princeton University, said this week that final disposition of classroom space had not yet been made. The gymnasium has, however, received its assignment: it will be used for the storage of equipment for the new physics building. The University League Nursery School's present home, between Palmer Stadium and Washington Road, will be demolished to make room for the physics building.

BIRTHS

Mixed Pair. Twins, a boy and a girl, were born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stabler of 85 Balcourt Drive on May 27 at Princeton Hospital. In all, 27 children were born at the hospital last week; 15 were boys.

Question of the Week

Question: What is your reaction to the news that the Borough School Board is considering banning students' cars?

Where asked: Princeton High School.

Barry Cooper, Penns Neck senior: I think they're interfering where they have no right to. Driving is a privilege which the state allows at 17 and I don't feel the Board of Education or anybody else has the right to take this away. I feel strongly that I should be a student parking lot. They're taking away a privilege as much as I drive to school and I don't want the car to go to work.

Larry Cook, Cabbery Road, Edinburg, senior: I don't think it's any good on account of the students who have to go to work after school; they need a car. Instead of banning cars, I think they ought to consider a student parking lot. The only place we have to park is on the streets. Another thing, most of these who abuse the speed limit around the school and make a lot of noise are the ones who don't even go to school. They're the kids who have to leave school for a few years and the dropouts. Coming into school is no problem for me; it's getting out to work after school.

Angela Caruso, 47 Chestnut Street, senior: It's not fair! Let's say some kids are late. The next bus into Princeton may be a couple of hours from then. They need a car. Seems like the School Board is trying to take away all our privileges. There's no senior lunch room anymore, no smoking area, no senior trip this year. We have to pay for our prom and now they're trying to take away the privilege of driving our own cars! If you own a car, I don't see how they can do it unless there is speeding around the school. There isn't even a lot for us to park. The teachers can't have all the privileges; you have to give some rights to the students.

Joseph Glaze, 109 Linden Lane, freshman: I think it would be a lot safer. They have all these cars around and they drag down Walnut Lane. They get in their cars and smoke and come in late and then use his as an excuse to skip class. In all for it. When you're in class, all you hear are these mufflers rattling — you can't talk.

Shlomo Shinnar, 151 N. Harrison Street, freshman: I think the cars here are a menace to life. I've almost not run over a couple of times. Some of them — not all, only a few, a little as one percent, but that's enough, drive right at you and then slam on the brakes from two feet away. I'm afraid they might not always make it. There's a lot of noise, too; you can't study.

Orlie Tuck, Dutch Neck senior: I think it's a very poor idea. If you have a license and a car, I feel you should be allowed to drive wherever you want to. I don't think driving interferes with studies, and I don't see what argument they can give for stopping it.

Tony Trani, Edinburg, senior: I feel we should have driving privileges, but in another way, I go along with the School Board. There shouldn't be guys racing around, making noise and disturbing the peace. It makes it look bad for the School Board and the principals. There are two ways of looking at this.

Tom Carson, Edinburg, senior: I feel the kids should be able to drive if they want to but then again, like Tony said, it is kind of dangerous especially with the new school going up. It will make it dangerous for the little kids because they won't be looking out for themselves and a lot of the drivers certainly won't be either.

Gary Tindal, Dutch Neck, senior: I feel students who drive with any sense should be allowed to drive; there are just a few rotten apples. It's up to them. If they cut out this menkying around and driving like maniacs, there wouldn't be any problem. It's pretty important for those who want to be able to drive to school. Otherwise, they'd have to go all the way home and then come back to Princeton.

Norman Everett, Clackville Road, senior: I just don't like it. I just feel kids need a car to come to school if they want to leave early for work or if they just want to drive around. I don't see where the School Board has any right to interfere; it's one of their businesses. If the kids want to come to school and foot around driving and get tickets, that's their problem. I don't see how they can stop us because when we park we are not on school property. The only thing they can do is keep us from parking in the teachers' lot.

Bob Stiller, Dutch Town Road, senior: It's not a very good idea because a lot of students drive to school after school. They could limit it if perhaps, but not restrict it. Someone misses his bus, he should be allowed to drive to school. I'd have no way to get to work if I didn't drive to school.

Linda McComas, Belle Mead, junior: I don't feel they should ban cars. I don't see where driving a car to school makes

HOW TO SERVE WINE

NO. 2 IN A SERIES

This is the second in our series of advertisements on the enjoyment of wine. We hope you find them interesting and helpful. We'd welcome any comments you might have and ideas for future subjects.

WINE TEMPERATURE

The rules are simple. Reds are served at room temperature. Whites should be chilled, as with rose wines. Sparkling wines can be even cooler. But no wine will be at its best if it is icy cold.

Some people enjoy red wines, particularly the light young wines, like a Beaujolais, slightly chilled. If you are one who does, by all means don't stick slavishly to the "reds at room temperature only" rule.

However, a truly great red will lose much of its bouquet and flavor if served chilled.

OPENING AND DECANTING

The modest investment for a good corkscrew is well worthwhile. We like the type with a double handle and collar which seats itself on the neck of a bottle and makes complete removal of the cork almost foolproof. We have them at $2.

The rule here is: Simply take it easy. Disturb the bottle as little as possible and carefully wipe the neck of the bottle with a soft cloth to clean away any residue.

Open red wines on hour or two before serving. By allowing them to "breathe" in this manner, their flavor and bouquet will be improved.

Older wines frequently develop a sediment which will spoil the taste of the wine if mixed with it. The fact there is sediment is not an indication that something is wrong with the wine at all.

One method to avoid mixing any sediment with the wine itself is to leave an inch or so in the bottle rather than pouring out all the contents into the final glass. Consider it a "gift to the gods!"

Another method is to decant the wine from the bottle into a clear decanter, stopping the pouring before any sediment is discharged. This can be developed into quite a ritual, but all it really takes is a light behind the bottle as you pour so you can see the sediment and stop before any sediment is thrown.

GLASSWARE

Again, the rules are simple.

A wine glass should be of uncut clear, not colored, glass and have a stem. Since a wine glass should never be more than half full, you need a good size glass. Actually, the larger the "bowl," the more the wine's bouquet will come through.

It's perfectly acceptable to serve any wine (except champagne) in what is called an "all-purpose" glass. This is one with a good size bowl on a stem about as long as the bowl. The sides should come together slightly at the top to trap the bouquet.

But if you want to serve more than one wine at a meal, there are appropriate glasses for each different type. We have a good selection of reasonably priced wine glasses for sale, or rent when you have that really big dinner party, and would be pleased to take care of your needs.

STORING WINE

Wine should be kept on its side so that the cork is kept moist. If a cork dries out and shrinks, air will enter the bottle and ruin the wine.

Light is another enemy of wine. Keep your bottles away from sunlight. Store them in any cool place where the temperature does not vary too much. Our cellar is an ideal place and we'd be delighted to store your wines there until you need them.

Store them with the label up so you can make your selection without disturbing the other bottles.

40 Years' Experience

A former Miss Fine's School student, Miss Conlin will enter Manhattanville College this fall.

Wells College has granted bachelor of arts degrees to five young women from this area at its 97th commencement held on Monday in Aurora, N.Y.

Miss Fiona Morgan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Morgan of 84 Elm Road, is an honors student majoring in fine arts. A graduate of Miss Fine's School, Miss Morgan was secretary of her freshman class and treasurer of the senior class, as well as a member of the college choir and other student choral groups.

Miss Barbara Pearce, daughter of Mr. John A. Pearce of a Mervin Place, majored in economics. She served on the orientation committee and was treasurer of the swimming club. Miss Pearce is a graduate of St. Ann's School, Charlestown.

Miss Charlotte R. Raymond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. MacSherson Raymond of Cherry Valley Road, was an English major. Active in the athletic association and the French Club, she was co-editor of a student publication and president of the literary club. She is a graduate of Miss Fine's School.

Question Of The Week
...difference. People are crying all over town about the difference between kids who need to go to work if you live in a grinding city where you have to take a bus at 3:30, which is always late, and those who live at home till 4:30. If you had a car, you could get home early. Also, you could do some shopping later on and so forth without having to be back at 3:30 to stand in a line for a bus. If they're talking about kids who live at home, I don't think it's one or two do that. Another point: If the School Board bans cars, the kids are going to drive anyway.

Lindsay Robbins, Plainboro, junior: I feel if they ban cars, the students will drive anyway. They'll just sneak their cars somewhere and make it worse. Furthermore, I don't think the board has any right. I think it is something that should be up to the parents.

Paul Lippman, Cranbury Road, Princeton Junior, junior: It's really ridiculous because a lot of boys want to go to school and need cars to get to their job. I can't believe the School Board doesn't believe in after school jobs. The Board would be eroding handbooks for many. I don't feel it's up to the School Board as it is to the parents. In the first place, I definitely don't feel the school has the right to say you can't drive to school.

William Newcamp, Old Trenton Road, senior: I don't think they should do it. Kids are going to drive anyway. They'll just park farther away. I'll be just like smoking: the school says we can't smoke but you can see all the butts lying around. I think if the parent give permission, it's up to them. We're not parking on school grounds, we're parking on public streets. I don't believe the School Board has any jurisdiction.

Teddy Wright, 19 Green Street, senior: I don't think they should ban cars. If they take away permission to drive to school, they are going to be faced with the problem of kids hanging around waiting for rides. I feel if the kids want to drive to school they should be allowed to. Also, I think having a car gives students a sense of responsibility, not only at school but at home. Kids don't drive as wildly as adults think they do. They just drive differently.

John Provenzano, 42 Carnahan Place, senior: I think it's wrong because most kids need cars for different jobs and for their own pleasure. Not only do I feel it's wrong, I don't feel they have any right to limit it. It is out of the School Board's jurisdiction. They're taking away everything we can't smoke they've taken away the senior weekend trip - the only thing anyone here left is their cars.

Pam Dunner, Franklin Avenue, junior: For the reason people have to work after school, I don't think it is at all right. A car is a big convenience if you're far from home. I have a job, or if you want to leave early, I think some will drive anyway, whether they're banned or not.

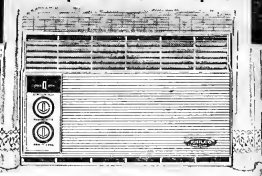

Dan Liden, Belle Mead, mechanic for Kammer Buick: I don't think they should. Let's say they do ban: you're going to have trouble enforcing the ban than you would if you let them continue to drive. They're already smoking and drinking, you ban cars, too, then the school is going to have a lot of trouble. In fact, I don't know where they can do much about it. The kids are parking legally on public streets; they're not on school property.

(Following is the text of a periodic report to the people of New Jersey made by Gov. Richard J. Hughes. In this one, he discusses his reasons for vetoing the controversial "Conflicts of Interests Bill.")

A short time ago, I felt it my solemn responsibility to conditionally veto Senate Bill No. 10, the so-called "Conflicts of Interests Bill." The alleged purpose of this Bill was to understand to define and prevent conflicts between the official obligations and the private interests of the members, officers and employees of the legislative and executive branches of government.

This measure was merely a repetition of an earlier Senate bill which would have reserved to each House of the Legislature the exclusive power to hear and determine all charges of impeachment against its own members. It constituted a nullification of the basic intent of the law, and I was constrained to return the bill to the Senate with recommendations designed to provide the assurance of a full and fair hearing on such charges by an impartial body.

It is my hope that the conscience of the Senate will move it to pass a realistic conflicts measure. To accept Senate Bill No. 10 as a "first step" or as a "half loaf" would, I fear, restate that public instance be foreseeable future the question of a meaningful conflicts of interest law. I think it is to the advantage of the people of this State that public instance be maintained on behalf of a law that has meaning and effect.

I have proposed that the State House Commission be empowered, as an appropriate independent tribunal composed of responsible members of the executive and legislative branches, to adjudicate all complaints involving alleged violations by members, officers and employees of both branches. This suggestion was offered as a possible compromise between the criminal sanctions preferred by the Assembly and the dilatory deterrent of secret self-examination long advocated by the Senate. The proposal deferred to the ultimate right of each House to judge the qualifications of its own members. For it would have constituted only as a fact-finding body with no authority to impose any penalties upon members and employees of the Legislature.

The paramount aim of such an approach is not to punish the Legislature but to maintain enforcement of a conflicts law in broad daylight. I strongly feel that to sign any conflicts law without such an assurance would be to deceive the people of New Jersey and to fail in my responsibilities as Governor.

The parade route will take the marchers to the east side of Palmer Stadium to Clarke Field past the reviewing stand. When the last class has entered the field, "Old Nassau" will be sung with George J. Cooke Jr. leading the alumni. The P-Rade will be followed by the traditional Yale-Princeton baseball game.

Although the game has been called off more than one occasion, the P-Rade was held only once in 65 years. In 1953 heavy thunderstorms cancelled the event for the only time in the 20th century.

Daniel E. Flynn, the first son born to a member of the Class of 1920 will throw out the first ball. Daniel, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Flynn Jr. of Long

SPORTS In Princeton

FEWEST MISTAKES Won So Lafayette Goes to Omaha. Of the four baseball teams which played here in the NCAA District II Regional Finals, Lafayette may not be the best, but in the pressure-cooker of earning a shot at the national championship, the Leopards made considerably less mistakes than the other three—and that was good enough to win.

• In the bottom of the ninth inning of the first game Friday, Rider left-hander Ron Mohr misjudged a hard-hit ball off the bat of Princeton's Al Genchi, duplicating a mistake of which he had been guilty in the third inning. Captain Jack Singer scored all the way from first on the resulting triple and a heavily-favored Rider nine was eliminated from the playoffs.

• In the fifth inning of the nighttime Friday, Pittsburgh's Fred Mazurek raced in from center field and snared a line drive but kicked the ball out of his glove with his knee. The error catapulted the winning run across the plate for Lafayette, raising to three the number of gift runs scored by the Leopards, and a Pitt team which had come into the contest with a 16-3 record was eliminated.

• In the seventh inning of the championship game Friday, Princeton had a 4-2 lead and was eight outs away from a trip to Omaha. But shortstop Joe Sisco threw wide of first to set up a three-run Lafayette rally. One run crossed on a single to left, and when the throw from the outfield went far too late to third, the eventual winning run coasted into second. A sharp single to center then produced the tying and winning tallies, the misplays sending Lafayette instead of Princeton to the nationals in Omaha.

Nine Runs — Seven Unearned. Of the nine runs that Lafayette made in its 4-3 and 4-4 victories over Pitt and Princeton, seven were the direct result of errors. The Leopards stranded a total of 30 runners in the game, but did not produce a single extra base hit and saw their pitchers in fairly constant trouble.

But the old adage that when evenly matched teams meet, the one with the best defense wins, held true. None of the three errors charged to Lafayette fielding was costly and the Pennsylvanians—coached for the past two decades by Charles Gelbert of the old St. Louis Gas House Gang—played generally held up ball.

Gelbert pulled one strategic gamble that paid off heavily, as the weakest of the four teams in the tournament, he saved his best pitcher for Saturday. Preston Shelby and John Ireland combined to hold the Panthers to three runs; the ace of the staff, Don Jordan (7-2), worked eight innings against Princeton Saturday and was the winner with the aid of a clutch relief inning by Ireland in the ninth.

Good news for the man who's over 40 and concerned about his health

When you're over 40 you begin to realize that good health may not always be yours. If you're wise you make the necessary adjustments—you enjoy life, but you don't overtax yourself.

Life insurance suddenly becomes more important, too. You want to make sure that all the gaps are plugged, now.

But uncertain health could make life insurance difficult to buy—more costly. Who can help you?

I think Manufacturers Life probably can. We believe life insurance should be available to as wide a group of people as possible—including people with coronary, high blood pressure, or ulcers, for example—at as low possible cost. In fact, our company was the first to offer life insurance to men and women with diabetes.

If you are under 80 and worried about your life insurance because you are worried about your health, give me a call. I'll review your present insurance and show you how Manufacturers Life may be able to plug any gaps there are in it—without placing you under any obligation.

A CLASS TO REMEMBER: When diplomas are awarded the Class of 1965 this month, two of Princeton's finest athletes will graduate. Above, Bill Bradley, basketball's All-Everything, scores one of his classic field goals. He has whirled, laked and is shooting while two Columbia defenders are still applying the brakes in the direction he had been going. For Bradley's counterpart in football, see opposite page.

by no means cowed by the impressive statistics the Broncos brought into Friday's tournament game. The winning strike at 20 straight had been compiled by a four-man pitching staff whose combined ERA was 0.68. Nick Marino scheduled to face them, was 8-0 and even better than Neil Borje, who had coasted to victory in the 8-3 decision over them on May 14.
Rider led most of the way,
taking a 1-0 lead, falling behind briefly by 2-1, but producing a 300-foot fourth inning homer to bring it even at 2-2. As late as the bottom of the eighth, the visitors had a 3-2 lead, and the Tigers had only six outs left.

Jack Singer, who was head and shoulders above any other player on the four teams with his hitting, got the Tigers back in the ball game with a leadoff home run in the next to last round. His blast sailed far over the left field fence, landing a good 300 feet away from home plate.

He was up again with two away in the ninth, and finding not only the left fielder but the third baseman playing extra deep, laid down a perfect bunt for his fourth hit of the game. Gencich's sharp drive followed, and when the Rider left fielder misjudged the ball in the gusty wind for the second time, Singer crossed the plate before the frantic relay reached the infield.

Clove Is Not Enough. Two early runs off John Redpath—the first unearned—gave Lajolette a quick lead over Princeton on Saturday. Despite morning rain, and a postponement until 4 o'clock, a crowd of close to 2,000 was on hand for the contest.

Who else but Singer got the Tigers even in the third when he followed a walk to Redpath and a double to Wally Uhle with a clothesline single over short that drove both runners home. Uhle, too, had a fine hit at the plate with a single double and leadoff walk in the ninth in five trips.

The Tigers seemed to wrap up the decision in the sixth, when hitter Carl Sahler singled to left center with two out and the bases jammed to arrive. In Singer and Gencich, Graham Marcot, winner in result of Tom Scott's annual Buller was on the mound by this time for the Tigers, and had recent strings of close calls to his credit this season.

As matters developed, however, the top of the seventh, however, neither Marcot nor his defense quite had it. Sisco's boot with one way was followed by a force out and a walk.

Tory Savitsky, a reserve outfielder who does not play regularly, followed with a short ball that fell in left center to deliver one run, and when the throw was far too late to bother the runner going into third, Savitsky trotted to second. First base was open with two out, and catcher George Hosenkamp, who was having a good day at the plate, was the batter.

Marcot pitched too well to him, his 1-2 offering coming in well above the knees and close to dead center. Frank Biondi could not reach the FAMILIAR SCENE: The Class of '66's other All-American (Bill Bradley is shown on opposite page) completes his virtually unstoppable wedge play for a touchdown. Here Captain Como Iacavanti splits Harvard line for six points on traditional fullback maneuver that defenders rarely stopped even though they knew it was sure to come. Tigers blanked Crimson in Palmer Stadium last fall, 16-0, on their way to a perfect season.

sinking line drive in center, and the 5-4 score that went up on the board proved to be final.

Fans in Ninth, Princeton had one more big chance when White opened the last of the ninth with a walk and Singer promptly followed with his eighth hit in two days. Needing only one run to tie, the Tigers simply could not produce. Genelli fanned on three straight foul balls trying to bunt the runners along, but Joe Sisco walked on a 3-2 pitch to load them up.

With a base hit past the draw-in defense all that was necessary for a tieoff to Omaha, Charlie Gelbert knew just how to pitch to Tom Pepper and Pete Riley. Relief hurler John Ireland threw three curves to Pepper and, after a called strike to Riley, jammed him twice under the wrists. Neither man got his bat on the ball.

The proper perspective is, of course, not the view that the Tigers lost in the district finals, but that they got as far as they did. The triumph over Rider raised their record to a fine 20-and-6 on the season, and if Navy defeats Army at West Point Saturday they will have a share in a four-way tie for first place in the Eastern League.

Home and home games with Yale, one at New Haven Saturday, the second here a week later, remain. It may be a strain on the Tigers to keep these two contests from ranking as anti-climaxes, but the target of a 22-7 season—better than any record since the early '20s—may provide the necessary incentive.

AIKEN SETS PHS MARK
In High Hurdles, Senior Bill Aiken became the fourth Little Tiger this spring to set a new Princeton High School record in track when he placed second in the high hurdles in the 27th annual New Brunswick Invitational Track Meet last Wednesday. PHS finished third in the six-team meet.

Aiken ran the highs in 14.5, one-tenth of a second faster than Earl Brown who set the previous mark in 1955. Bill also captured third place in the pole vault.

Allen then joined teammates Andy Gallagher, Andy Kuley and Bart Bennett, who set a new mark earlier this season in the mile, shot and low hurdles, respectively. This onslaught on the record book has proven to be expensive to coach Jerry Groninger, who at the start of the season promised a steak dinner to anyone who set a new school record. Said Groninger: "It looks as if my family is going to be eating hot dogs for a time."

The meet last week soon developed into a three-way struggle between Princeton, New Brunswick and Andover Park for top honors. The other three contenders: — Trenton, Toms River and Highland Park—finished far behind.

When it was all over, the host, New Brunswick, had won — continued on page 29 for the third year in a row, amassing 55 points to 53½ for second-place Abury Park and 48½ for Princeton. Despite its fine showing, PIIS failed to capture a single first.

Vince Roccaforte ran well in the 100 and 220 for the Blue and White, finishing second in both. His time of 22.3 in the 220 was a new school record he has bettered 23.0 this year.

The year-long duel between Trenton's Dave Bradley and Princeton's Jay Gallagher in the mile continued at white heat, as Bradley ran a 4:29 to top Jay for the third time this year. The Little Tiger ace had run Bradley into the ground two weeks ago when he set the new PIIS mark of 4:23 for the event. This time, Bradley sprinted by Jay just before the tape.

Barl Bennett took second in his specialty, the low hurdles, and co-captain Andy Kullay was also second in the 110. In the shot, having set a new record last week of 53-1½, with a loss of 53-1 Don Lindall, sophomore, took second place behind him. A surprising whitewash in the discus and only a third place in the javelin were the only two events where the Little Tigers have been strong all year — ruled out their chances of taking top honors in the meet. They also were shut out in the high jump.

WOOD HURDS TWO HITTER
Second in a Row. A strong two — pit pitching performance by sophomore Tommy Woods — his second in a row — of the light PIIS defense and a porous Somerville one were the main ingredients in Princeton's 5-3 triumph Friday over the visiting Pioneer. It marked the first time this season the Little Tiger won 5-11, have won two straight.
For the first innings, Wood was working on a no-hitter. Behind him, his teammates had played errorless ball. The visitors broke through in the sixth when they scored all their runs, added by a two-base throwing error by Bob Mooney, but it was too little, too late. Mooney's bubble was the only PIIS misfire of the contest.

Somerville (8-10), on the other hand, couldn't do enough to hand Princeton a victory. Its pitcher walked the first three batters to start the game and then hit Curt Schaefer, leaving in the first run. Paul Barrett then singled home two more to give PIIS a 3-0 edge. In the third, the Blue and White scored, but proved to be the winning run, without a hit. (It only got four) Barrett got on via an error and traveled the circuit when two more misplays followed. In the fifth, Ken Ward got his first of two hits, and Jay Barrett before him, came home on two more Somerville errors.

Somerville threatened again

Wexes Named Coach

Trwin Wexes, an assistant coach of track and field at Princeton University, has been named an advisory coach to Trenton's Princeton High School team in Israel this summer in the Seventh World Maccabiah Games.
Wexes who lives at 248 Moore Street, has been a coach at Princeton for 10 years. Specializing in field events, he has helped develop three 15-foot pole vaulters, a 250-foot javelin thrower and a high jumper who topped 6 feet 11 inches.

He has served on the food and housing committee of the United States Olympic Committee in the past two Olympiads and has been chairman of the New Jersey Amateur Hand Drive for 16 years. Wexes will be in Tel Aviv, Israel, from August 23 to 31 for the Maccabiah Games.

The seventh. With one score and men on first and second, Ken Ward leaped high from the shortening grass to speck the drive and prevent a sure double. His flip to second missed doubling the runner up for the final out. Ward had moved over from his number 13 second base slot to fill in for Bill McQuade who was injured in the first inning of the World's Fair with the school hand.

Wood in turn 3-0, and is the only winning pitcher on the squad. The team will play its finale Friday against Cathedral.

HUN LOSES FINALE

2nd in Penn-Jersey League. The Hun School baseball team lost its final game of the season last Wednesday when visiting Trenton State J.V. scored seven runs in the last inning to win, 10-2. Hun ended with a 4-3 record.
All of those four victories, however, were scored against Penn-Jersey League opponents where Hun finished second to Perkasie with a 4-2 mark. The only defeat sustained by Perkasie in league play this spring was an 8-2 triumph registered by Hun in the latter's season's opener.

One again, wack hitting led to the Red and Black's downfall with Trenton. Coach John Talbot's slumping nine collected only five hits, in losing their third in a row. In its last six starts, Hun had scored a total of seven runs. Talbot gave voice to Hun's impotence at the plate, saying, "Our hitting was terrible. It came to the point where we just couldn't hit. Certainly that was our main trouble the last half of the season."

Hun talked once on a walk, a single by Scott Page and Rusty Reilly's sacrifice fly. In the fifth, Jeff Kirsh, co-captain, singled and later scored on an error.
Scott Page started for the fourth and pitched well until the sixth inning when he tired. Then in the final frame the visitors jumped on Page's successor, Carl Wilson, and it was all over for the Red and Black except for shreds of "Wait 'til next year."

Elected co-captains of the 900 Hun squad were outfielder Scott Anderson of Dutch Neck and Mike Blum. Miller is the team's shortstop.

INDOOR TENNIS DELAYED
By County Park Commission. Plans for indoor tennis courts in Mercer County were set aside indefinitely as a result of a meeting of the park commission last week.

The commission had intended to discuss the eight courts in the old K-user building at the Mercer Airport at a cost of $75,000. The plan was cancelled, explained Freeholder Richard J. Coffey, commission president, when it was learned that construction costs and added expenditures to remedy structural difficulties would mean doubling the original estimate.

Regulation indoor tennis requires a 27-foot ceiling. Because in the Kaiser building are as low as 22 feet, where the building is constructed on a rock surface, the floor could only be lowered at a cost of about $25,000 per foot.

Furthermore, Mr. Coffey said, the $75,000 figure announced previously was a non-professional estimate. It is more likely that construction would cost $125,000 plus the added expenditure to lower the floor by a foot.

"I don't think we can invest $150,000 of the county's money into something we don't feel will be a complete success," Mr. Coffey said. It appears, he concluded, that the building will remain a storage facility for parade equipment, although the commission intends to meet with a Philadelphia construction firm to discuss possible solutions.

DOG AWARDS MADE

At Trenton Club's Graduation Mrs. Peter Halbert of Titusville and her miniature poodle won first place in the beginner's group and Mrs. Lila Norris of Princeton and her poodle were the winners in the intermediate division at graduation exercises for spring classes of the Princeton Dog Training Club.

Others in the beginner's group were William Pizini of Morrisville, Pa., and his German shepherd, in second place while third prize was awarded to Philip Ehrlich of Princeton and his west Highland terrier runner up prizes for intermediate were won by Stanley Gumborg of Franklin and his airedale and Mrs. Joyce Corbo of Trenton and her cocker spaniel.

NATIONAL WINS, 2-1
In All Star Game. Four National League hurlers limited the American League all-star team to three hits and one run Memorial Day as the National League recorded a 2-1 victory.

The losers loaded the bases with none out to the final inning but could score only one off Dick Jackson. Earlier, Mark Anderson, Willie Russo and John Holder had each pitched two shutout innings. Anderson and Russo also combined for four of the seven singles scored.

Dick Magee and Leonard Kingsley of the Indians led off. Dick Mordcaid of the Senators collected the three American hits. All were singles.

In regular play last week, Chuck Egnor's 2-for-3 performance at the plate and Larry Parker's three-hit plugging led the Tigers to a 2-1 upset victory over the Orioles. The win pushed the Tigers into first place in the American division, two points ahead of the Orioles.

Person To Person

It was interesting to learn that a couple of hundred years ago all shoes were made of wood. In fact, either one foot or the other of earliest civilizations foot-wear was merely a protection (for the soles of the feet (sandals), then a minked advancement he added ornamentation. In ancient Egypt and later societies the style of the sandal or "shoe" became a mark of the wearer's station in life. The birth wore red shoes, court attendants wore white, tragedians a boot-type, etc. As in everything else big changes did not take place until after the machine age brought about the of the handmade craft. The earliest machine-made shoes started in England in 1810. It's very rare for each shoe to modern automobiles, but a very short distance to terrific bargains in cars and their service... right here is the place!
